“Our objective was to improve upon last year. The convention center staff did not disappoint...We at the Television Academy agreed that this year’s Balls were better than 2009 which is the goal we always set for ourselves. “The entertainment industry is the bedrock of Los Angeles and we are taking the necessary steps to keep our signature industry here where it belongs.”

Honorable Antonio R. Villaraigosa
Mayor
City of Los Angeles
In September 2008, LACC became the first U.S. convention center and the first City of Los Angeles building of its size and age to be awarded certification in Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design for Existing Buildings (LEED-EB) from the United States Green Building Council (USGBC). This fiscal year, LACC continues this stewardship in its efforts to advance towards the next level in LEED-EB.

Some of these efforts include solar panels on the South Hall exterior and Cherry Street parking garage, addition of newer energy efficient lighting, partnership with Geo Green Biofuels to recycle up to 100 gallons of used trans-free cooking oil on a weekly basis, installation of approximately 190 low flush urinals throughout the Center to help conserve an estimated 1,000,000 gallons of water annually, and modification of exhibit hall doors so that they maintain the air conditioning within the hall.

LACC hosted its 2nd Annual “Earth Aware, Doing Our Share” Earth Day event on April 21, 2010. On this day, close to 500 local students helped LACC adopt trees from the Million Trees LA project and participated in various interactive earth-friendly activities. Exhibitors included UCLA’s COSEE West, USC’s Sea Grant Program, the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power (LADWP), and the Bureau of Sanitation. Students learned about LACC’s earth-friendly programs and got a glimpse of the kind of impact they can make on the world.
“LACC is a model environmental-friendly facility. Its solar panels are capable of meeting the electricity needs of an estimated 100 homes, and its recycling, energy efficiency and water conservation programs help the environment.”

Youth. LACC’s “Get In Touch With Your Future” youth and education enrichment program encourages hundreds of elementary, middle, high school, and vocational students to obtain higher education, protect the Earth, contribute to society, and succeed. In its fourth consecutive year, this program has been developing learning excursions, collaborative programs with events hosted on site, and internships in the hospitality, culinary, engineering, and automobile industries for students in Los Angeles and abroad. From programs such as “LACC Student Tours” and “Bring Your Kids to Work Day”, students learn about the many job and internship opportunities at LACC, receive an exclusive tour of the facility’s inner-workings, and an all-access tour of prominent select events. At the April “Earth Aware, Doing Our Share” Event, students learned about LACC’s earth-friendly programs and practices of our City partners to create a more sustainable environment.

Community. LACC has hosted several community events attended by thousands of local Angelenos. Notable events included the November Turkey Give-Away where turkeys were distributed to over 2,200 local Angelenos, and the March “Get out the Count” Census Awareness Day, an event in line with the Mayor’s Office of the Census.

We endeavor to inform citizens of opportunities to improve and better their well-being and thus contribute to a global society.
“The Los Angeles Convention Center is one of the most important and unique assets in the City of Los Angeles.”

message from the CEO and General Manager

The Los Angeles Convention Center (LACC) has continued with its focus on delivering a world-class venue to Los Angeles and to the World. To this end, LACC proudly completed the 2009-10 fiscal year having met or exceeded every operational, financial and community goal within its strategic annual plan while faced with the most unique and diverse set of circumstances, opportunities and challenges experienced by this organization over the past decades.

In the midst of continuous and degrading economic trends, impacting all industries and markets and in particular the hospitality, meeting and event industry, LACC was tasked with delivering unsurpassed value in support of both the regional hospitality industry and the recently completed Sports and Entertainment District of L.A. LIVE.

The elevation of the hospitality and tourism sector as the number one engine of Los Angeles economy and jobs, further cemented the significance and critical nature of LACC’s role as an iconic reflection of this great city and her aspirations. In parallel with this recognition, it was clear that LACC was to achieve operational excellence in an environment of severe fiscal and administrative City-wide constraints. More than ever, the growing need for LACC to continue delivering a positive track record of operational self-reliance and fiscal solvency was ever-present.

In the 2009-2010 Fiscal Year, the LACC hosted 139 hall events, 152 meeting room events, 7 special functions and banquets and 39 filmings and photo shoots while posting one of the highest hall occupancy rates within the industry nationwide. The events collectively generated $25.7M in gross operating revenues, and $22.1M in net operating revenues. In the filming/photo shoot category alone, LACC experienced an 85% increase in the number of such events and a 24% increase in derived revenues related to this type of activity. LACC also booked 246 new events, an increase of 38%, and 311 repeat events resulting in the largest cumulative booking pace of the past few years.

LACC will once again look to be among the few centers nationwide, if not the only one, that delivers both excellent service and solid business output.

Additionally, and of special note, was that through collaboration with the Mayor’s Office, LA INC., L.A. LIVE and the hospitality community, we attained two short term mega events: the American Heart Association’s Scientific Sessions Convention (November 3-7, 2012) and the Microsoft 2011 Worldwide Partner Conference (July 10-14, 2011). Both events required significant calendar moves and flexibility. These events alone will result in close to $100M in future positive economic impact for Los Angeles. The Electronic Entertainment Expo (E3) also processed contracts for three years in Los Angeles worth over $60M in economic impact.

Furthermore, we delivered in the areas of: increased filming at LACC; the launch of the Consulate Corps program; interior marquee sign upgrades; implementation of the new LACC Greeter Program; forward progress in reaching the next level of U.S. Green Building Council certification for Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design for Existing Buildings; designing a $1 million parking services application to significantly facilitate the ins and outs of parking patrons; adding a Mandarin Chinese language version of our website; completion of an upgrade of our Information Technology networking and cabling infrastructure; and completion of a multitude of organizational and infrastructure projects.

In addition to delivering stellar support to signature events such as the Greater L.A. Auto Show, American Heart Association’s Scientific Sessions Convention, and the Microsoft Worldwide Partner Conference, the LACC will once again look to be among the few centers nationwide, if not the only one, that delivers both excellent service and solid business output.

on the horizon...

E3 signs 3-Year Contract
LACC is proud of its continuing successful relationship with the Entertainment Software Association (ESA). “There is much to be said about a convention of this magnitude returning to the entertainment capital of the world,” said Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa. “The video game industry is one of the few industries in the nation that continues to show signs of growth, and ESA’s three-year commitment to Los Angeles is a testament to our City’s formidable hospitality and technology sectors.”

Los Angeles Books Microsoft Worldwide Partner Conference for 2011
Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa announced on May 10, 2010 that the City of Los Angeles will host the Microsoft 2011 Worldwide Partner Conference (WPC) on July 10-14, 2011. Mayor Villaraigosa and First Deputy Mayor Austin Beutner worked closely with senior Microsoft officials to bring the global conference to the City based on the area’s world-class conference facilities, hotels, restaurants and entertainment.

American Heart Association Coming to Los Angeles in 2012
The American Heart Association, a national voluntary health agency whose mission is to build healthier lives free of cardiovascular disease and stroke, has selected Los Angeles for its annual Scientific Sessions meeting from Nov. 3-7, 2012. This is the first time the association has held its national convention in LA. More than 28,000 delegates are expected to attend the four-day event that will use approximately 45,000 hotel room nights.
Grammys and Emmys, and hundreds of other small and large events in the 2009-10 fiscal year, LACC delivered great value to our community through active and recognized participation in the 2010 U.S. Census awareness campaign effort, expansion of our youth and education programs and continuous focus on our environmental objectives.

The LACC family of employees, our partners, stakeholders and the City’s leadership greatly contributed to the strategic vision and success that has been realized as the fundamental basis and uniqueness of LACC’s unprecedented performance in the recent years. LACC’s performance in the 2009-10 fiscal year is also a testament to its rich culture and pride in representing the best of Los Angeles before a regional, national and international audience.

In closing, I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge and show our appreciation for the women and men of LACC for delivering on all fronts as we look forward to the opportunities that the 2010-11 fiscal year will bring to our organization.
